QUALIFYING QUESTIONS WHEN CHOOSING A PRINTER

- What machines are you currently using?
- How would you describe your usage? (Reams of paper used)
- Do you require colour? Double sided capability? A3?
- What types of documents/ applications are you printing?
- How many users?
- Do you need scan/copy/fax functionality?
- What frustrations, if any, do you have with your existing printers?

HELPFUL TIPS WHEN LOOKING FOR A BROTHER PRINTER

Most Brother Printers have certain letters included within the code. The following list explains the meaning of each of these letters.

- D – Duplex
- W – Wireless
- N – Network
- C – Colour
- MFC – Multifunction with fax included
- DCP – Digital Copier Printer
- ADF – Automatic Document Feeder

WHAT IS AIRPRINT?

Airprint is a new Apple technology that allows users to print directly from their Apple device to a printer (that supports the AirPrint software).

With AirPrint there is:

- No setup
- No drivers

AirPrint automatically locates printers on a local wireless network so that users can print documents, photos, web pages and more anytime and anywhere directly from their Apple iOS device (iPad, iPhone, iPod Touch). Just tap print and select your printer!

How do I get AirPrint to work?

- iPad or later models
- iPhone 3GS or later models
- iPod Touch 3rd generation or later models

WHAT IS HP ePRINT?

ePrint allows you to print direct to enabled printers by sending an email to your printer’s email address. ePrint lets you print via the cloud from any smartphone or computer without installing any special drivers or software. You can use ePrint from anywhere in the world, and print to anywhere. As long as you can send an email, you can print.

Key features of ePrint:

- No software/app required
- Files are e-mailed to the printer
- E-mail confirmation when print is sent to printer
- Prints PDFs, Microsoft Office, OpenOffice, Web and photos
- Photos are automatically sent to photo tray
- Highly secure or open accounts

INTRODUCING HP’S WIRELESS DIRECT PRINT

What?

Print from any wireless computer or mobile device using a direct wireless connection to enabled ePrinters without the need for a router or internet connection. Print and scan easily in the home or office, and share your printer with other users without the need to have or provide access to your private networks.

How?

Switch on Wireless Direct in the wireless menu of the printer’s touchscreen. The printer will then broadcast its own wireless network which devices can connect to. Password security can be enabled. Use the HP ePrint app available for your PC, Mac, smartphone or tablet platform. Wireless Direct can also be used via the standard print menus on your Windows, MacOS, iOS and WebOS products.

Which models feature Wireless Direct?

All new wireless printers launching 2012 onwards
